DETAILED ACTION

This communication is responsive to the amendment filed March 16, 2005.

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO ('950) in view of Carroll ('744).

WO discloses a device for transmitting torque comprising two rotatable shaft coaxial shaft members (1, 2), braking means (21), means for transmitting differential rotational speed (16), first and second thrust rings (11, 15), an outer ring (19), gear ring (20), a compression spring (8). WO does not teach using balls as the means for transmitting differential rotation.

It has been known, however, to use ball instead of geared planets. Carroll, for example, discloses such an arrangement comprising balls (18) flanked by four thrust rings (14, 15, 20, 21), and a circumferential ball holder (19).

FIG. 3.

Then, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use balls in the device of WO in view of Carroll for simplicity and cost reduction (Col. 1, lines 14-29).

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-5 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-4 of U.S. Patent No. 6,892,867 in view of Carroll. The claimed invention of the instant application differs from that claimed in the patent in their means transmitting differential rotation.

It has been known, however, to use ball instead of geared planets. Carroll, for example, discloses such an arrangement comprising balls (18) flanked by four thrust rings (14, 15, 20, 21), and a circumferential ball holder (19).

Then, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use balls in the device of U.S. Patent No. 6,892,867 in view of Carroll for simplicity and cost reduction (Col. 1, lines 14-29).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Erban ('140) discloses another ball differential having cam means.

Severinsson ('293) discloses another device for transmitting torque.
